FRANKFURTER TO HIGH COURT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (INS)—President Roosevelt today appointed Felix Frankfurter, of the Harvard Law School, to the United States Supreme Court to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo.

The nomination was announced at the White House only a few minutes before it was transmitted to the Senate, where prompt and speedy confirmation is expected.

All factions in the Senate commended the choice. Conservatives joined with liberals in forecasting that there will be little if any opposition to confirmation.

The appointment was not wholly unexpected, although it had been thought for a time that the President would choose a Westerner to fill the current vacancy, in view of the fact that the Far West is not now represented on the court.

Mr. Roosevelt turned, however, to his old friend and frequent adviser, the Harvard law professor, who is highly regarded by the New Deal and Democratic liberals generally. Incidentally, the appointment of Prof. Frankfurter maintains two Jews on the bench, the other being Justice Louis D. Brandeis.

BRANDEIS MAY RETIRE

In some quarters it was believed possible that with Prof. Frankfurter's nomination, Justice Brandeis may now retire. He is in his 82nd year, has served 23 years on the high court, and recently was reported as having told President Roosevelt that he desired to retire. The President is said at that time to have dissuaded him.

Also, in this connection, a story has been current round th Capitol for weeks to the effect that Justice James Clark McReynolds, implacable opponent of the New Deal and a conservative of the old school, had told friends he would retire if Frankfurter were appointed to fill the Cardoza vacancy.

CLOSE TO ROOSEVELT

Professor Frankfurter has been especially close to Mr. Roosevelt, and a frequent visitor and confidante of the President's. Many of the "young lawyers" who came into the New Deal agencies early in the administration have been proteges of Professor Frankfurter.

The nomination and expected confirmation of Professor Frankfurter restores a full complement of justices to the Supreme Court, which for months, since Justice Cardozo's death, has functioned with but eight, and sometimes, seven justices.

It is the third vacancy on the bench that Mr. Roosevelt has filled since his ill-fated effort to enlarge its membership nearly two years ago.

Justices Van Devanter and Sutherland, conservatives, both retired after the court fight, and in their places the President named Justice Hugo Black and Solicitor-General Stanley Reed.

As soon as the reading of the President's relief message was concluded in the Senate the

F.D.R. Budget Asks for Huge Arms Outlay

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—President Roosevelt asked vast sums for national defense today in a multi-billion dollar budget that projected another deficit and an unprecedented public debt of $44,458,000,000 in 1940.

His annual report to Congress on the nation's finances advised emphatically against a "violent contraction" in spending or "drastic new taxes."

He opened the way, however, to "moderate tax increases" to meet increased expenditures of $422,000,000 for armament and farm relief costs.

He called for $8,995,663,200 of federal spending in the fiscal year beginning next July 1 and estimated the deficit for that year at $3,326,343,200.

He asked $1,609,000,000 for national defense, including an extra $500,000,000 to speed up the armaments program. Of the latter sum, however, only $210,000,000 would be disbursed next year.

PREPAREDNESS THEME

Reiterating the preparedness theme voiced in his message to Congress, the President said all are aware "of the grave developments in international relations during the past few years."

"Because of the conditions of modern warfare," he continued, "we must now perform in advance tasks that formerly could be postponed until war had become imminent."

Mr. Roosevelt did not specify the form of the suggested new taxes. He recommended continuance of a group of emergency "nuisance" levies scheduled to expire June 30.

Crediting the administration's current spending program with aiding "the existing upward movement of business and employment," the President said it should not be curtailed "arbitrarily or violently."

WPA FUNDS ASKED

The budget included an estimate that at least $750,000,000 would be required to operate WPA until

Bay State Man Named Currency Comptroller

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—President Roosevelt today nominated more than 100 persons for important federal posts, including former Senator James P. Pope of Idaho as a member of the Tennessee Valley Authority, succeeding Arthur E. Morgan.

Among the new appointments was that of Charles E. Clark of Connecticut to be judge of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the second Circuit covering Vermont, Connecticut and New York.

Topping the recess appointments were those of Frank Murphy of Michigan to be attorney general and Harry L. Hopkins of New York to be secretary of commerce.

Other nominations included that of Preston Delano, Massachusetts to be comptroller of the currency.

Sen. Bridges Attacks Hopkins and Murphy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — President Roosevelt's appointment of Harry L. Hopkins and Frank Murphy to the cabinet was attacked on the Senate floor today by Senator Bridges (R.) of New Hampshire.

"In his appointments the President apparently has made a specialty of naming lame ducks, people who have been repudiated in their own districts," the senator shouted.

"Mr. Hopkins has been repudiated in the last election by the people of the entire nation."

Truck Strike Here Halts Delivery of Food Supplies

Possible food shortages and industrial plant shutdowns threatened central and northern New England areas today, as more than 4000 union truck drivers went on strike in Boston, halting transportation of wholesale produce, raw materials and freight.

Heavy police guards were stationed at railroad and steamship terminals, where foodstuffs and manufactured goods piled up.

FIRST VIOLENCE

First violence occurred, according to police, when a cargo hook was hurled through the window of a non-union truck attempting to run through pickets at the Fish Pier with a load of cod and haddock.

Fish deliveries were hard hit. Raw wool and cotton were also seriously affected.

No other disorder was reported, although clashes threatened when non-union and out-of-state trucks rolled up to receive cargoes at Charlestown, North End and South Boston warehouses.

Strikers on picket duty promptly explained that situation to working drivers who took their trucks away, unloaded.

STRIKERS STAND FIRM

Meantime, union officials and employer corporations continued negotiations, with strikers standing firm on their demand for a $40, 40-hour week, with time-and-a-half overtime pay for a working day in excess of eight hours.

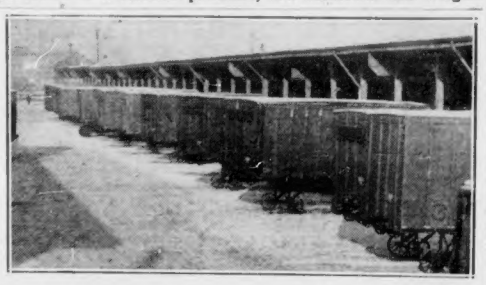
Best counter-proposal of employers was reported to be 71 cents an hour pay, with overtime after a 54-hour week.

After these terms had been flatly rejected by the truckmen's union, employers made a second proposal, it was stated, but addressed this to the state board of arbitration and conciliation in a sealed communication.

Consideration of the communication and publication of its terms were awaited today.

Meantime, deliveries of milk and bread and hospital supplies were being permitted, with trucks authorized for this service identified by union stickers.

Two large truck concerns, defying the rule of the strikers, enrolled office help and other "inside" workers to drive vans from Battery Wharf to the market district.



TRUCK STRIKE—Walkout of 4000 union truck drivers today froze transportation and made Boston's streets almost truck-free. The Boston & Maine yards in East Cambridge had a line-up of truck trailers . . . like this.

GOVERNOR PLANS 'PURGE'

OATHS AHEAD—Accompanied by military aides, Leverett Saltonstall and Horace T. Cahill enter the House of Representatives chamber at the Capitol to take oaths of office

Inaugural Marked By Solemnity

Solemn words resounding through the hushed stillness of the House of Representatives chamber were echoed by solemn guns at noon today, hailing the inauguration of Governor Leverett Saltonstall, the first Republican in eight years to become chief executive of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Seventeen times the gun boomed on Boston Common. Seventeen times and within the chamber wave after wave of applause greeted the slim new chief of Beacon Hill.

Seventeen times — and another figure came slowly and alone down the long stretch of the capitol steps, paused for a moment at the bottom, then climbed into an automobile and drove away.

HURLEY PASSES

The old governor is gone, hail to the new!

The ceremonies were traditionally impressive from the very beginning, when the then Governor Hurley entered his office for the last time a little after 10 o'clock to be greeted by the staff of a new governor and banks of flowers for a new governor.

For the last time Hurley sat in the executive chair, and was still sitting there at 11:25 when the new governor entered the room. They greeted one another, and Hurley moved aside.

"Sit in the chair," pleaded photographers.

"Not for half an hour," laughed he who was still "Mr." Saltonstall.

A few minutes later the committee of Senators and Representatives arrived to announce

Saltonstall Takes Office With Pledge to Assist All

Inaugurated Massachusetts' 55th governor at noon today, Leverett Saltonstall, addressing the Legislature, lashed out directly at graft and inefficiency in the present state government, the tremendous waste of taxpayers' money and the "pardon and parole racket"—his own phrase.

He pledged a clean, honest, efficient administration and asked every aid of the Legislature to that end.

His address indicated an eventual purge of several high-office holders in the present state government setup.

Security for the young as well as the old—security and social justice for every John Q. Citizen—was the overtone theme of a simple, fervent speech, couched often in many phrases seldom voiced by a Republican governor.

At the same time he asked a return to real New England economy.

His address is a declaration of policy and a memorandum of intention, stressing government's ever-increasing responsibility to the governed and the ever-widening scope of governmental activities.

He stressed, too, the inviolability of individual rights and warned that loss of them leads to dictatorships.

His speech is addressed to the legislature, but it concerns a symbolical third person, that "he" which is all of us, and it deals first and last with that third person and his affairs.

What "he wants," what "he" needs—that was the temper of the address, and it was phrased in those terms.

Mr. Citizen of Massachusetts is palpably the one person in whose present and future his governor is most deeply concerned.

TRAGIC TIMES

And strangely, coming 24 hours after President Roosevelt's report to Congress on the state of the nation, some of the phrases sounded the same.

He promised reorganizations where required. Purges where needed. Prosecutions if called for.

He named no names, but he did name two departments specifically as requiring attention, and implied that two others would be the better for it.

He minced no words over civil service, nor over unemployment

Raps 'Pardon Racket'

Mincing no words, and sparing no feelings, Governor Saltonstall denounced in his inaugural what he deliberately called "the pardon and parole racket." He said:

"Desperate criminals must not be permitted to prey upon the citizens of Massachusetts. The pardon and parole racket must stop.

"I believe our present laws on pardons and paroles to be adequate, but it is the spirit of the law which must be carried out."

(His Inaugural Address to the Legislature)

These are tragic times. Times which truly try men's souls. The world has gone mad with tyranny and persecution. There is but one hope left. Democracy must not fail. It is the one thing to which helpless minorities cling.

To preserve that democracy our government must not only adhere to the fundamental principles of freedom and liberty, but government must provide for the needs of its citizens. It must furnish security for the aged and opportunity for the young.

It must recognize the changing economic status and the duty of the State to co-operate harmoniously with both labor and capital, to the end that the words "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" shall take on a new and a real meaning.

If we are to maintain our democratic ideals, then it is the duty of government to provide first for the man at the foot of the hill; to build soundly and constructively so that our economic building shall not crumble. We must make certain as we climb the hillside that government is serving each and every individual.

Democracy is not a government of the few but a government of all. Let us be ever mindful of the rights of every citizen. It is the encroachmen upon and the gradual taking away of these rights which lead to dictatorships.

Urges Action on Biennial Sessions

Before discussing general problems of State with you, I recommend that you give immediate consideration to the Constitutional Amendment adopted by the people for biennial sessions of the General Court.

This will require changes in procedure and in laws. Changes necessary in the rules of the General Court you will determine. I recommend the appointment of a commission of seven persons, four to be selected by you and three by me, to consider changes in laws.

This commission should be able to make its report before February 1, in order not to delay your consideration of the State Budget and legislation.

It is the primary duty of the Chief Executive of the Commonwealth to demand and to insist upon honest service in every department of government. To have honest service department heads must be men of character, industry and irreproachable honesty.

They must be men above suspicion and men whom the breath of scandal has not touched. Government is no more honest than the officials who administer it.

The people of America are rapidly becoming more and more tax conscious. They fully realize that government cannot operate without funds, and that funds can only be raised by taxation; that ultimately, directly or indirectly, this money comes out of the pockets of each and every one of us.

The less we pay in taxes, directly or indirectly, the more money we have to spend in our own way.

Perhaps the most potent force in government is the power to tax. It is well for us to remember that the power to tax is also the power to destroy.

One of the pressing problems of the present era is the tremendous waste of the people's money.

If Massachusetts is to be re-

Lodge Attends Inauguration

United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., made his first public appearance in several weeks today when he attended Governor Saltonstall's inauguration at the State House.

A severe attack of the grippe recently confined Senator Lodge to his bed, preventing him from going to Washington for the opening of Congress.

He recovered sufficiently to be up and around, but until today he had remained at his home in Beverly.

Aged Woman Slain in R. I.

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 5 (AP)—Discovery of the body of a 72-year-old woman, identified as Mrs. Anna Baker, in a rooming house at 319 Pine street here presented police today with their most baffling murder mystery since the unsolved Dr. Webster murder 18 months ago.

Commander Thomas F. Rattigan, in charge of the detective division, said the aged woman had apparently been attacked and viciously murdered with a milk bottle. Her body was concealed carefully beneath rugs and clothing on the floor of her room.

Police questioned George A. Southwick, 37, described as a waiter, who said he heard a thud and a scream in Mrs. Baker's room just before noontime yesterday.

Mrs. Josephine Haffecke, proprietress of the rooming house, said nobody heard any noise or scuffle during the night. Pending the arrival of a medical examiner, Rattigan said he was of the belief the woman had been killed late yesterday or during the night.

Pieces of the broken milk bottle were taken at once to the state toxicologist for fingerprint examination.

Two granddaughters, who visited Mrs Baker for a week during the Christmas season were her last known visitors.

The woman has a son, E. W Baker, Rattigan said, who is believed to be employed in the Federal Reserve System

125,000 to Attend Olson Barbecue

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 5 (AP)—They're going to throw a big party here next Saturday to honor the election of Culbert L. Olson as the first Democratic governor of California in 44 years. It's going to be informal and a mere 125,000 guests are expected.

Preparations have been completed for the barbecue of 50,000 pounds of beef. Workmen have already started warming up huge barbecue pits on the State Fair Grounds.

Taxi War Rages On at Council Hearing Today

Boston City Council's committee on public safety resumes its stormy hearing today on the taxicab situation, with Frank Sawyer, president of the Checker Taxi Company, the first witness.

The question at issue is whether to abolish all privately controlled stands, allegedly secured by political influence, and make the taxi drivers scramble for spots in a free-for-all.

It is probable that Councillor Clement A. Norton will appear with a police escort.

Spearhead of the attack on the "vested interests," represented by the Checker company and others, he is a chief defender of the Independent Taxi Owners Association, the I. T. O. A.

At the meeting of the council yesterday, constantly heckled, he demanded "protection."

Abraham Miller, president of the I. T. O. A., is appealing to the committee to favor 1100 independents.

Joseph Finnegan, former Senator, appearing for the independents, was involved in several noisy clashes with council members.

At one point, Councillor Lyons demanded to know whether Councillor Norton was present in his role of councillor, or as counsel for the independents. The question was excluded.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Jan. 5 (AP)—Labor Leader Alex Bustamante called off a longshoremen's strike here after a fight between police and workers at a mass meeting. Several were injured slightly.

Irate Dad Scraps Roosevelt Names

AKRON, O., Jan. 5 (AP)—When a son arrived four years ago the John Ehmigs named him Franklin Delano Ehmig. A daughter arrived two years ago, and they selected Eleanor Elizabeth Ehmig.

Now Ehmig has applied for probate court permission to change the names to Lincoln Franklin and Jessie Elizabeth.

Ehmig said he reached the decision when his WPA check arrived too late for Christmas.

Jap Fascists Name Cabinet

TOKYO, Jan. 5 (AP)—The fascistic, 73-year-old bachelor baron, Kiichiro Hiranuma, formed a highly authoritarian government today with completion of a cabinet that included the resigning premier, Prince Fumimaro Konoye.

Prince Konoye became minister without portfolio, a new post, and most of his cabinet officers remained in the new government which is expected to impose increasingly strict control of economic life, seek to consolidate Japanese conquests in China and bring all political parties into a single, Nationalist group.

SEES DIFFICULTIES

The new cabinet was installed by Emperor Hirohito tonight. Konoye also was installed as president of the Privy Council.

Hiranuma, in a post-installation statement, said that "the nation now is facing a situation of unprecedented difficulties and all the national energies will be devoted to attainment of the objectives of our crusade."

The cabinet includes four new ministers, Sotaro Ishiwatari, finance; Yukio Sakurauchi, Minseito party advisor, agriculture; Yonezo Maeda, minister of railways; and Hisatada Hirose, who had been vice-minister, as minister of welfare.

The resignation of Seihin Ikeda as minister of finance and commerce was the most notable change, indicating that a main cause in the cabinet collapse was disagreement over the extent of government control of business.

Ikeda opposed restrictions on corporation capital and munitions profits, having himself been identified with the Mitsui industrial interests.

Key City Falls Before Franco

HENDAYE, France (At the Spanish Frontier), Jan. 5 (AP)—The Insurgent command today announced the complete conquest of Borjas Blancas, strong point of the government defense system in southern Lerida Province.

Dispatches said the occupation was completed shortly after a brief battle in the suburbs. Borjas Blancas, 67 miles west of Barcelona, was entered first by Navarrese troops who smashed through government defenses on the southern side, the insurgents announced. At almost the same time Insurgent Legionnaires broke through from the north.

Butterworth Funny? Not to Wife

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5—Charles Butterworth, favorite screen and radio comedian of many, was not funny at all to his wife, Ethel, it was revealed here today with her suit for divorce on the grounds of cruelty.

To thousands Butterworth is always the unfortunate little man who unwittingly does the wrong thing. He is the poor little chap you always feel sorry for.

But Mrs. Butterworth, who formerly was wed to Eddie Sutherland, movie director, charges he was cruel.

She divorced Sutherland in 1931 and a year later married Butterworth, who was a lawyer and newspaperman before his unusual comic character was discovered.

They were married December 7, 1932, and separated February 20, 1937, according to Mrs. Butterworth's complaint.

Frankfurter To High Court

Frankfurter nomination was referred to the Senate judiciary committee. This was considered routine and in line with the wishes of some senators that all judicial appointments be considered by the committee.

The motion to refer it was made by Senator Barkley (D.) of Kentucky, the majority leader. Senator Clark (D.) of Idaho was in the chair.

The Senate promptly agreed and turned to other business.

Won Honors By Fine Mind

Born in Vienna, of Jewish parentage, 56 years ago, Felix Frankfurter could speak no English when he was brought to the United States as a boy of 12.

Yet a scant dozen years later, after being graduated from City College, New York, he won his Harvard law degree, with high honors.

Frequently active in the public service during the past two decades, he won international recognition more for the breadth and power of his mentality than for the offices of trust and responsibility which he held.

Prof. Frankfurter's 11-Word Comment

Professor Frankfurter had 11 words comment on his appointment today to the United States Supreme Court. He said;

"I am, of course, sensible to the obligations and honor involved."

NOTED AS LIERAL

Strongest of his characteristics, associates soon learned, was always crusading liberalism.

He first stepped into the spotlight in assachusetts when he took an active part in the worldwide campaign to save the condemned slayers,S acco and Vanzetti, from the electric chair.

He believed conviction of the two radicals was a miscarriage of justice and a "social crime."

TRAINED "BRAIN-TRUSTERS"

Although Professor Frankfurter has held several appointed posts of importance under the Roosevelt New Deal, his influence in the making of history during recent years has centered in the training of brilliant young minds.

Under his wing at Harvard Law School were nurtured many of the so-called Roosevelt "brain-trusters" and their still more influential Washington successors.

Among his proteges have been included such men as Thomas "White House Tommy" Corcoran, James M. Landis, former Securities Exihange Commission chairman and p resent Harvard Law School dean, and Dean Cheson, former undersecretary of the treasury.

SIGNIFICANT MOVE

Significance of Professor Frankfurter's appointment to the nation's highest tribunal was subject of eager discussion here and abroad today.

He was hailed by fellow liberals as a man slose in friendship, social philosophy and racial ties to his predecessor, the late Benjamin N. Cardoza.

It was generally predicted that Frankfurter decisions on the high bench might be expected to follow the pattern set by the most forward looking and broad minded of the court's great justices, past and present.

The Harvard Law School professor, short, stocky, and gray, with a conspicuously bulging forehead, has more than once openly agreed with Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes who stated "the Constitution is what the judges say it is."

Council Ends Work; Acts on No Pardons

In a session lasting only 38 minutes, Governor Hurley and his outgoing executive council wound up their business today, with no hits, no runs and no errors in the final frame.

No business was transacted and no pardon applications were considered, although there still were a dozen that had been submitted to the governor with recommendations.

It had been anticipated that Hurley might again place before the council at its last session at least the names of former City Treasurer Edmund L. Dolan and J. Walter Quinn, now serving sentences of two and a half years for contempt of court.

The council completed its tenure with the swearing in by Governor Hurley of Timothy Shea as a member of the State Board of Pharmacy. Executive Councilor Edward F. Collins as clerk of Springfield district court and Lieutenant-Governor Francis E. Kelly as commissioner of the Fall River Finance Board.

KELLY HITS CRITICS

Kelly's job is good for six years at $4000 a year. Two Boston newspapers—not the Evening American or Daily Record—said he had asked for the job. This inspired a blast by the retiring lieutenant-governor after the swearing in.

With the council session closed and the press admitted, Kelly read a two-page typewritten statement, declaring:

"I want to say now, for the records and before the council, that I was greatly surprised when the governor asked me yesterday to take this part-time position, especially when I realized that within the last two weeks I had voted against his appointment of Tax Commissioner Henry Long, not because of anything personal but because Mr. Long had advocated the sales tax, to which I am opposed.

DID NOT SEEK JOB

"Your Excellency, I now ask you this question: 'Did I ask you for any position during my two years' service here as lieutenant-governor and a member of this council?' "

Governor Hurley replied:

"No, sir. As a matter of fact, when I made this appointment I said in the council, 'No one could possibly call this a political appointment,' and I also said if it were not for you I would be back here as governor today."

Carney Bribe Trial Set for Reopening

TAUNTON, Jan. 5—With a one-day postponement because of Governor Saltonstall's inauguration, prosecution and defense attorneys today prepared for tomorrow's reopening of the trial of Mayor Leo E. J. Carney of New Bedford charged with soliciting a $25,000 "bribe."

District Attorney William C. Crossley announced five witnesses will take the stand tomorrow to support the charge that Mayor Carney sought "$25,000 on the line" in connection with a garbage removal contract.

Martin Gives Views On 'Dictator Bill'

Congressman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., Republican floor leader in the National House, attending inauguration of Governor Leaverett Saltonstall today made two predictions concerning the impending federal government reorganization bill.

"If it is based on economy and efficiency, it has a good chance," he said. "If it is based on centralization of personal power or increasing of bureaus, it won't."

Speed Plans For Community Fund Drive

Leaders in civic, business, professional and political life rolled up their sleeves today to achieve a $4,645,000 goal of the Greater Boston Community Fund between January 23 and February 7.

There was a promise that such a goal will be reached—made at an organization dinner of the campaign at the Copley-Plaza.

At a head table graced by the general chairman of previous drives — including Governor-elect Leverett Saltonstall — each and every speaker sounded a warning that the drive must not fail.

James B. Conant, president of Harvard University, spoke. Stuart C. Rand, general chairman of this year's campaign, presided.

Charles Francis Adams, president of the Community Federation of Boston, and the Rt. Rev. William Lawrence, Episcopal bishop emeritus of Massachusetts, were included among the list of brilliant speakers.

Huge Arms Cash In U. S. Budget

June 30. Present funds are expected to run out February 8. The President also estimated the WPA would need at least $1,250,000,000 for the next fiscal year.

Mr. Roosevelt estimated that all "recovery" and relief expenditures, including aid to farmers and home owners, the works program and direct relief would amount in the 12 months ending June 30, to $3,187,695,000.

The comparable expenditure for the succeeding 12 months, he said, would be $2,266,165,000, provided the tentative $1,500,000,000 for the WPA still seems to be adequate when he sends up revised relief estimates in April.

The budget message did not project a new public works program. Estimates showed PWA has $620,000,000 still to spend on the current program.

Next year's $8,995,663,200 total expenditure estimates, which did not include $100,000,000 to be used for paying off debt, compared with a forecast of $8,482,529,000 for the current year. Receipts were set at $5,669,320,000 and $5,520,070,000 for the respective periods.

REPEATS BUDGET THEORY

Mr. Roosevelt renewed his often-repeated suggestion that the best method of obtaining a balanced budget is the promotion of economic recovery.

"We cannot by a simple legislative act raise the level of national income," he said, "but our experience in the last few years has amply demonstrated that through wise fiscal policies and other acts of government we can do much to stimulate it."

The President said it was a "well-known fact" that the current spending program was necessary to check recession.

The projected $44,458,000,000 public debt in mid-1940 would be close to the statutory limit of $45,000,000,000. Mr. Roosevelt is generally expected to ask Congress to raise the limit during the present session.

Discussing emergency expenditures of recent years, the President said that "we have not been throwing the taxpayers' money out of the window—we have been buying real values with it."

BOOKKEEPING REQUEST

For future bookkeeping, Mr. Roosevelt suggested that Congress consider legislation to make the Treasury's accounts of assets compared more nearly with accounts kept by commercial enterprises.

Under the proposed system, loans for self-liquidating projects would not be listed as expenditures. If the project returned a profit, the profit would be recorded as a receipt. If it showed a loss, the loss would be made up by the Treasury and listed as an expenditure.

Such agencies as the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the farm security administration would be affected by the suggested system. The self-liquidating projects which they financed would be gradually amortized as their loans were repaid.

In his specific budgetary recommendations, the Chief Executive urged that the Civilian Conservation Corps be made permanent. The agency is scheduled to go out of existence June 30, 1940.

In submitting the largest army and navy estimates in 19 years, the Chief Executive said the "necessity for expanding our national defense" required the special $500,000,000 appropriation besides increases in the regular annual military funds.

DEFENSE STEP-UP

For more officers, men, planes and guns Mr. Roosevelt proposed to step up actual defense expenditures 30 per cent to $1,319,558,000.

Atop this, $290,000,000 of the projected $500,000,000 extraordinary appropriation would be retained as a reserve.

Mr. Roosevelt asked $1,109,557,900, an increase of $90,351,000, for strictly military purposes.

He requested $667,498,800 for the navy, an increase of $92,589,250. He proposed that funds available for naval construction be increased by $135,113,150 to $270,000,000, and that $74,000,000 be supplied the navy's bureau of aeronautics, an increase of $25,925,000.

The construction increase, he explained, provides for continuing work on some 90 vessels already under way and for beginning construction in 1940 of two battleships (expected to be the world's largest), two cruisers, 87 destroyers, eight submarines, two seaplane tenders and one repair ship.

AIRPLANE SPENDING

The money also would provide for expanding the navy's air forces by 93 planes.

Included was an estimate of $4,000,000 toward the cost of modernizing the aircraft carriers Lexington and Saratoga.

Mr. Roosevelt recommended 448 additional officers for the navy, 73 for the marine corps, and 456 for the army. The budget included provision for 5500 more naval enlisted men, increasing the number of sailors to 113,050.

In line with the recent recommendation of Secretary Woodring that the Panama Canal be made "impregnable," Mr. Roosevelt recommended $2,575,497 for fortifications there, compared with the current $1,766,402.

For the army air corps there was proposed $67,800,440, compared with the $70,556,972 estimated current expenditures. Informed officials said the reduced figure provided for less than 200 planes.

FLOOD CONTROL INCREASE

An increase of $28,000,000 in general flood control funds and a decrease of $38,528,231 in allotments for rivers and harbors improvement were proposed.

The budget calls for $110,000,000 for flood control. The total includes $3,000,000 for preliminary examinations and surveys for run-off and water-flow retardation and soil erosion prevention on the watersheds of flood control projects.

For maintenance of existing river and harbor works, the President recommended $41,000,000, a decrease of about $2,000,000 from the 1926 appropriation, while for new river and harbor work he asked for $36,000,000, an increase of $5,500,000 over the 1939 appropriation.

Here's How U. S. Spends

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—The budget which President Roosevelt sent Congress today calls for the spending of $17,113 a minute in the next fiscal year.

The proposed rate amounts to $1,026,826 an hour, or $24,643,835 a day.

New Governor Feted Tonight

The reception at Mechanics building will begin at 5 p. m. The banquet will start at 7 p. m., and at 9 o'clock the governor will leave for the inaugural ball.

Murphy Opposes New Taxes in N. H.

CONCORD, N. H. Jan. 15 (INS)—A plea that the New Hampshire Legislature resist imposing new taxes was delivered by Governor Francis P. Murphy (R.) in his inaugural address today.

He asked the legislators, however, not to refuse appropriations involving the welfare of the state and its residents.

New Canal Zone Spy Trial Opens

CRISTOBAL, C. Z., Jan 5 (INS)—Trial of Ernest Robert Edward Kuhrig, second of four Germans arrested Oct. 16 in the Canal Zone on espionage charges, was underway here today.

Nazis Hint Break Over FDR Talk

BERLIN, Jan. 5—A warning that President Roosevelt's message to Congress "could almost be described as provocation to break off diplomatic relations" between the United States and Germany was published today in Marshal Goering's newspaper.

The Essen National Zeitung, with this blunt assertion, led a renewed German press attack upon the Roosevelt administration, unleashed only a few hours after the American chief executive ended his indictment of dictatorships.

"Silly and dirty mendacities against Germany and Italy," was the official news agency's summing up.

The Diplomatic Correspondence, official organ of the foreign office, joined in the attacks on Mr. Roosevelt, saying:

"Mr. Roosevelt will probably find it difficult to convince anyone in Germany that he actually fears armed attacks against the United States or the American continent."

Indicating its belief that President Roosevelt's remarks were aimed principally at Germany, the National Zeitung commented:

"It proves that the responsible leaders of the United States, in contrast to the German attitude, are not interested in satisfactory co-operation between both peoples."

It was clear that the sections of the President's message dealing with dictatorships produced a "painful impression" in official German quarters.

Roosevelt Talk Seen Bracer for Chamberlain

LONDON, Jan. 5 (INS)—President Roosevelt's vigorous new attack on dictatorships and his firm warning that America is preparing to defend herself against both cultural and territorial incursions may bring about an important change in Prime Minister Chamberlain's foreign policies, British circles believed today.

France Hopes U. S. Will Give Active War Aid

PARIS, Jan. 5 (INS)—Unconcealed satisfaction over President Roosevelt's message to Congress, indicting Europe's dictatorships, was expressed by the French government today.

Unofficial French hopes were expressed that the United States would now be willing to lend active as well as financial support to the European democracies in the event of any possible future conflict with totalitarian powers.

Stan Laurel Wife Starts Jail 'Stay'

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5 (INS)—Ilena, the Russian wife of Film Comedian Stan Laurel, will "sign in" at the Beverly Hills jail at 9 a. m. today to begin a nine-hour sentence for reckless driving.

The singer and dancer, who recently sued Laurel for separate maintenance, was found guilty several months ago, but resisted the verdict successfully until yesterday. She also will pay a fine of $100.

Report 25 Below In North Vermont

NEWPORT, Vt., Jan. 5 (AP)—A new low temperature for the winter in this vicinity was reached today when the mercury slumped to 17 degrees below zero at the official weather bureau station. Unofficial readings were as low as 25 below.

It was 15 below at Montpelier—14 below at Lancaster, N. H.

U. S. Budget In Brief

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Here is the President's budget in brief for the fiscal year 1940:

Expenditures, $8,995,000,000.
Receipts, $5,669,000,000.
Net deficit, $3,326,000,000.
Debt total at end of year, $44,458,000,000.

This compares with the following revised budget for the fiscal year 1939, which ends next June 30:

Expenditures, $9,492,000,000.
Receipts, $5,520,000,000.
Net deficit, $3,972,000,000.
Debt total at end of year, $41,132,000,000.

Bar Politics In Relief, Plea Of Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—President Roosevelt, in asking Congress today for a supplement appropriation of $875,000,000 to carry work relief through next June, recommended strict legislation imposing penalties for "improper political practices" in relief.

The President, however, asked that the present program of administration be continued for the rest of this fiscal year to prevent disruption of the program.

OPPOSES LOCAL RULE

He opposed turning the administration over to local boards, as has been suggested. Anyone proposing such method, President Roosevelt added, is "either insincere or is ignorant of the realities of local American politics."

The President's work relief message went to Congress in the midst of a controversy over the placing of WPA employes under civil service. Opponents of this step interpreted the move as a trend toward making the WPA a permanent agency, and declared it would give a preferred job-holding status to many administrative employes they consider incompetent.

Under an executive order issued last June 24 by the President 35,000 WPA administrative employes will be blanketed into the civil service February 1.

URGES RIGID PENALTIES

In his message on relief Mr. Roosevelt said it was his belief that "improper political practices could be eliminated only by the imposition of rigid statutory regulations and penalties by the Congress, and that this should be done."

"Such penalties should be imposed not only upon persons within the administrative organization of the WPA, but also upon outsiders who have in fact in many instances been the principal offenders in this regard," he declared.

CITES N. E. HURRICANE

Requesting speedy action on the supplemental appropriation to prevent suffering, the President listed four factors as making the additional funds necessary, over and above the $1,425,000,000 appropriated for the first eight months of this year.

Two factors, he said, were foreign developments and the New England hurricane. Others were that employment on WPA projects failed to keep pace with the need because of lack of sufficient funds, and what the President called a customary lag before the "impact" of the jobless reaches the WPA.

Gov. Barrows Calls For Strict Economy

AUGUSTA, Me., Jan. 5 (INS)—Boasting a balanced budget and assailing the federal government, Governor Lewis O. Barrows (R.), in his address to the 89th Maine Legislature, today warned that rising welfare and relief costs together with declining revenue made necessary the practice of strictest economy.

There is no one to blame . . . but a man is dead, and a woman weeps, her children about her knees.

A Christmas prisoner, he was released from Deer Island to go home for the holidays. They found him this morning. He had hanged himself . . . But, really, there is no one to blame.

The dead man was Wilfred T. [illegible] Hayes, 28, and the father of four [illegible] last. His body was found by Howard W. [illegible], a son of Mrs. Helen Hayes, 21, [illegible] this morning, [illegible]

"Will had a job in Buffalo," she said, "and he was sending a little money home—not enough, you understand, but something.

"So my sister went for relief. They told her the only way she could get it was to swear a warrant out that he wasn't supporting her. Well, she did it, and they punched him and brought him back. He got three months on the island.

"They turned him loose for Christmas and he came home. There was a dinner, and all, and it looked like everything might be all right. But the court had fixed it so he had to give up so much a week. He had until the 10th to make good.

"He didn't have a job. The time was getting short. Last midnight he went out, not saying much, and Helen got scared. She called the cops. They found him.

Governor's Prayer

Here, simple, fervent, is the prayer of a New England state chief executive, Governor Saltonstall, for guidance in the task for which he has been chosen:

"Guide us so that we may act justly; preserve for us that priceless heritage of liberty, make us see clearly that boundary which separates liberty and authority. Give to us an unconquerable will to administer the affairs of our Commonwealth in such a manner as to be worthy of her loftiest traditions."

In this connection, I recommend that the present milk control law be extended for two years. I shall demand that it law be administered efficiently and impartially.

(d) Massachusetts as a great recreational center must be encouraged. We must encourage citizens from all over the nation to visit with us and to enjoy the beaches of our landscapes and the pleasures of our shores.

An influx of visitors to Massachusetts means more jobs created for our citizens.

The [illegible] question in New York this year makes it particularly important that people know of our natural advantages.

A [illegible] program based on the [illegible] information [illegible] to preserve and develop the natural beauties and recreational opportunities of our State must be adopted and this [illegible] program [illegible].

To [illegible] I pledge my interest and support. I will make, as they [illegible] specific recommendations for better protection and wiser use of our natural resources.

Laws Governing Intrastate Business

(e) Many of the citizens [illegible] operating [illegible] in Massachusetts as our railroads are subject for the most part, to the Federal government.

Today [illegible] difficult time, I [illegible] that you consider [illegible] our [illegible] see that all [illegible] can be made that will [illegible] to our [illegible] encourage the proper operation of [illegible] railroads.

I recommend [illegible] consideration of such a study in connection with your consideration of the railroad and street railway systems.

Urges Further Port Development

(f) The Port of Boston is one of the greatest ports on the Atlantic seaboard. There is every reason why the [illegible] should be [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] $20,000,000 investment therein.

We must strive to make it a growing and vital element in the life of our State. The more business our port produces the more jobs there are for our citizens.

I recommend [illegible] consideration by you of [illegible] to see if any of our [illegible] should be improved or changed [illegible] are [illegible] and [illegible] to maintain.

(g) One of [illegible] which [illegible] becomes [illegible] to Massachusetts is our [illegible] industries.

It is of [illegible] a matter of national [illegible] that [illegible] be maintained. However, I believe that many jobs can be created in a great natural resource of Massachusetts and New England. I suggest [illegible] your study of [illegible] effort to [illegible]

Would End Quibbling On Power Rights

FIVE STARS IN 'THE SHINING HOUR' AT LOEW'S

'Dramatic School' Shares Program Honors

Two major Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer productions, "The Shining Hour" and "Dramatic School," make up the new program opening today at Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters.

Based on the New York and London stage success by Keith Winter, "The Shining Hour" brings to the screen a five-star cast: Joan Crawford, Margaret Sullavan, Robert Young, Melvyn Douglas and Fay Bainter.

The picture, which has won a fanfare of cabaret dancer played by Miss Crawford, moves at a rapid pace through the night life of New York to the vastly different surroundings of a Vermont farm, where she is persuaded by Douglas to give up dancing and marry.

On the farm her life becomes complicated by those of the spinster sister, Miss Bainter; the younger brother, and his wife, Miss Sullivan.

Co-starring Academy Award Winner Luise Rainer and Paulette Goddard, "Drama" ... draws back the veil of a year in dramatic school in Paris ... revealing for the first time the secret rivalry of such a school

STARS GALORE—What a lineup, boys and girls! Five popular stars in one picture. "The Shining Hour," opening today at Loew's State and Orpheum. And here they are, Joan Crawford, Melvyn Douglas, Margaret Sullavan, Robert Young and Fay Bainter.

'Spices of 1939' Opens at Gayety

"Spices of 1939," musical revue featuring Claude and Marion Cleveland, the Three Cadets, Gleason and Sandborn, Bromley and Barron and other local favorites, opens today at the New Gayety stage.

By popular demand, the two screen attractions are being held over for the remaining three days of the week. They are "That Certain Age," starring Deanna Durbin and "The Gladiator."

'Going Places' Via Paramount, Fenway

Paramount and Fenway Theaters' new program beginning today, features the New England premiere of two major screen productions.

"Going Places," Warner Bros. [illegible] swing-time romance featuring Dick Powell, Anita Louise and Ronald Regan, [illegible] with the torrid swing offerings of Louis Armstrong and Maxine Sullivan, will divide premiere honors with Faith Baldwin's great story, "Comet Over Broadway," featuring Kay Francis, Ian Hunter and John Litel.

"Going Places," a sizzling concoction of torrid swing tunes madcap comedy jitterbug dishes thrilling action and youthful romance, concerns itself with the [illegible] activities of a [illegible] who masquerades as a famous steeplechase rider.

"Comet Over Broadway" [illegible] fully depicts the [illegible] serious and heartbreak [illegible] life of a woman who, after [illegible] the pinnacle of success as a great actress, [illegible] returns to obscurity. Kay Francis in the stellar role is supported by Ian Hunter and John Litel.

New Features At Trans-Lux

The Trans-Lux Theater's new Trans-Lux Newsreel Digest will include "Going Places," a travelogue of Yellowstone Park narrated by Graham McNamee, "Mae Will Play," a Merry Melody cartoon, "Technicolor Goes" a subject showing how cards and dice are manipulated, Dave Apollon and his orchestra in a new revue and "Lady Life Guards," a short subject demonstrating that the female of the species is not the weaker sex.

EXCLUSIVE. The Senate's very important Ways and Means Committee will be chairmaned by Senator Arthur Hollis of Newton . . . "Purging" of Senators Don Nicholson and Cornelius Haley, who went along occasionally with Democratic measures proposed by the Hurley administration, was seen as an indication of a strongly partisan regime by the victorious Republicans . . .

Senator Nicholson, by seniority, was in line for the chairmanship of the ways and means committee . . . The job would have been Racing Commissioner George Mayes's if he had been re-elected . . .

GEORGE HOLLAND

Atty. William R. Scharton's country estate and stud farm at Somerset, Va., will be the subject of a cameraman for one of the national picture magazines . . . The Boston attorney inherited the estate, Gaston Hall, from a du Pont, (a client) . . . The game room is one of the most famous in the country . . .

In addition to rare heads of all varieties of big-game, specimens of more than 300 birds, all native to North America, are on display . . . .

From Burleycue to Big-Time:

A Boston burlesque house has yielded another performer to one of the more remunerative lively arts . . . "Looney" Lewis was scooped up by a scout for Fred Allen at the Columbia two weeks ago, and is now a feature of Fred's radio show . . .

A dozen years ago, Joe Penner was booked for big-time vaudeville while playing at the New Gayety, then a burlesque house, here . . .

An interesting story which has not reached print before is that of Joe Yule . . . About a year ago, Yule was a minor comedian at Al Somerby's famous Old Howard, now the oldest burlesque house in operation . . . It was at the time when a young movie actor known as Mickey Rooney was showing the promise which catapulted him the past year into a ranking place among the "first ten box-office stars" (Mickey is rated fifth, as I remember) . . .

Mickey was making great progress with his career, but Joe Yule was playing the same old bits, at the usual salary, in the burlesque houses . . . It is generally known now that Mickey Rooney's right name is Yule, and that his pop is Joe Yule . . . But the young star's father isn't playing burlesque anymore . . .

He's in a new Clark Gable picture, and has a contract as a writer, too . . . The whole Yule tribe is taking on dignity with the years . . . Hollywood swears it's true that Mickey fired his valet a few weeks ago because the valet refused to address him as "Mister Mickey" . . .

Once Over Lightly:

Roy Gill, former manager of the Normandie, is the probable next proprietor of Norumbega Park's Totem Pole, restaurant and concessions . . . The deal is in the making . . .

Joseph Miron, the artist-bartender of the Bradford Penthouse, submitted his application yesterday for membership in the Boston Art Club. A gallery of Miron paintings adorn the banquet rooms of Dinty Moore's . . . Doctors say that there is more alcoholism of an acute kind, than Boston reports make known. Some of them think that some very bad "liquor" is in circulation . . .

A top-to-bottom shakeup is due soon at one of the Boston hotels . . . The Saturday night New Year's Eve was not such a glowing success in the New York cabarets. No more was it here . . .

Sportswriter Joe Cashman and the waiters at the Latin Quarter were among the variegated folk who had a few bombs on the nose of that old Boston favorite "Taunton," when it popped down a winner at Tropical Park yesterday at limit odds . . . Young Happy Robinson was not represented among the winners . . . He has sworn off gambling for 1939. Or if he gambles, this column and the Internal Revenue Department are not going to be hearing about it . . .

A Hollywood movement is being hailed in the trade press as a "Trend to Americanism" . . . Writers will like the lead with the three films of an anti-Nazi nature . . . They are "Confessions of a Nazi Spy," which is being previewed by the German consul at Los Angeles, "Escape" [illegible] Concentration Camp" and "[illegible] Haym Salomon" . . .

At the same time, the "Hollywood Anti-Nazi League" in a drive for members is using full page advertisements in amusement trade papers . . . The black headlines of the ads read "So You Think You're 'Safe', Do You?" . . . "So You've Got 'Liberty,' Have You?" . . . Honorary membership costs $100 . . .

There is som thing about the eve of war like the night before a b football game. It makes the blood tingle, doesn't it, de youth?

You were not yet born when the last war starte or were in sanitary pants or just learning to lisp yo lessons. So I thought you might like to know how th one ended.

Yes! It is lacking only a few months of being twen years since the big guns quit along the Western fro the sputter of rifle fire died away and men came out their holes. An aching calm reigned along the lines a I remember the brightness of that old November da low the purple Vosges tumbled toward the horizon. The was the odor of wood smoke and sour stable smells. A rooster crowed like the thin wail of conscience. And the crisp tramp of an early morning fatigue detail marched, chu-chu-chu, along the dirt street of the little billet town behind the lines.

THESE SON

But It Was AFT

A bugle had sounded a brass summons with little staccato notes at the end, "Ta-ta, ta-ta," meaning a double quick. Soldiers slipped into overcoats and spouted from cowpens, haylofts and horse barns, questions in their eyes and unshaven stubble on their chins. Officers came strapping on Sam Browns and chewing the last mouthfuls of breakfast. And, finally, the long double ranks stood suspiciously in company front before the battalion headquarters where the street made an angular elbow and houses leaned against an upgrade. There were no purposeful eyes and firm chins then, for were crawling with vermin and our nostrils were f with perpetual stench. Can you understand that, youth?

MAJOR SHINERS. A MAN WITH A little limp a crooked leer along the right side of his mouth where a shr splinter had nicked the nerves of his cheek, came out o H. Q., flicking away a cigaret and scratching an itch betwee buttons of his tunic. The Top Kick yelled 'tenshun an ranks stiffened as the Skipper began to read with lips moved only on the left side of his mouth, "Whereas of this an Armistice has been signed . . ."

Armistice! A brief whoop rose from the end of the where recently arrived recruits called themselves the "hell and made a hobby of gruesome souvenirs. But the veteran lifted cynical eyebrows, snuffled moist noises and twitched skins where the cooties bit thickest. For we got quite fo the cooties, dear youth, because they served to occupy our in the candle-lit evenings and "reading" our shirts had the detached comfort that knitting gives an old lady.

So, the major creased the dispatch with fingers yellowe nicotine and seemed fumbling in his mind for something ap priate to say. But he simply grunted "dismiss" and limped ward his office without taking the sergeant's salute or wai to hear his echoing "Dismiss."

THE MUSTARD COLORED RANKS BROKE, the n eyeing the buttons at their throats and fumbling for their toba There were no cheers as they wandered away, brooding on news and saying little. A French farmer, in wooden sabots a stained smock, brought out an eldering horse and led him to wa

A Private Anton Dutch private named Sielers shuffled along. His twin was in a base hospital at Beaune, blinded and a lung eaten with phosgene gas. That granary at the angle of the street was the billet where Ed Clipper once breathed blue-notes into his harmonica and held candle-light concerts before dysentery gave him a pine box and a cotton flag for his last couch.

SUCH SCENES SURVIVE THE YEARS in a man's mind, dear youth. They are the scar tissues of memory. So, I can still see a red-headed sergeant named Sam Guggemus, a hobo in civil life trudging off to fill his can-teen with cognac and trying to forget how he had hacked Joe Broadfoot from his shattered torso and groped hot-daze the bestial gaps in his stomach, where Chatex chain bullets had tapped his intestines. For we used to dream about such things, dear youth, and sometimes our sleep was broken by black, swimming objects which colluded with consciousness and caused us to wake staring in the darkness.

ELT IN PRAYER
Death—Not BEFORE

The village Mayor, an aged patriarch with a beard stained by tobacco droolings, came out of his cottage in an antique frock coat and a tri-colored sash, his eyes streaming with emotion and quavering an official speech to all who would listen. And that was Pere Savignard, dear youth, who owned a framed certificate in gilt lettering which told how his sons, Felix and Rene were 'Mort pour la Patrie." The haycocks behind his home, the vineyards and henroosts would know Felix and Rene no more. But the old man's voice cackled about 'Notre braves amies" and the "Grand victoire" in hysterical rigamarole while his elderly dame hid weeping behind her curtains. Some fun, eh, dear youth?

Yes, an armistice was declared—for the living. But in the terraced churchyard where reeling walls were buttressed with tilted slopes and bright bead flowers and rain-proof rosettes, stiff military crosses stood. Inside, as you entered an iron gate, the first wooden arm read, "Andre Moullet, Cpl, Ire Cie, 47 rgt Chass." Frost had cracked off the "x" in the word "paix" from a wreath of rubber ivy, and some macabre American had added a "d" and pencilled the words "in full." Yes, dear youth. Paid in Full.

* * *

THERE WERE SOME FIELDS ACROSS a railroad ravine where we first learned to pull the pins from hand grenades and hurl them hastily before ducking under sandbag shelters and where Solly Rosen had lost his right hand in a premature explosion and gone home with a stump below his cuff. And there was a sentry box where Art Mallon, ex-cum-laude at Princeton, had suddenly gone mad and slit his wrists with the dull edge of his bayonet. So it was not all drums, flags and bands, dear youth.

Twenty years ago, come next November 11, candle glows filled the town's windows and a clatter of alcoholic boisterousness filled Mme. Aubryn's buvet. And that night a cold wind had come from the north, stripping away the last of summer's leaves and rushing on with a whispered protest of unseen voices. And above all had sounded a solemn boom from the town's church as the parish cure tolled bells which had remained mute for four years.

Better luck, dear youth?

Yours faithfully,
All of Yesteryear's Sons.

OUT OF BORROWED HAT!

The Editor Says:

Nelson Harding's cartoon is timely and important. From Paris, London and Washington come reports of new attempts to negotiate a settlement of the war debts owed the United States by Britain and other defaulting nations.

Of course, nobody on this side of the Atlantic is surprised, for daily it becomes more apparent that foreign countries want to incur MORE DEBT. That obviously, is the only reason why they are discussing the old obligations.

Fortunately the American people will not be fooled. Pretenses and empty promises are no longer attractive to them.

Let nations which want credit in the United States come here with CLEAN HANDS. Credit is and should ever be the relationship between HONORABLE NATIONS.

The United States is now holding the sack for more than twelve billion dollars because we once made the mistake of thinking the European debt defaulters were honorable nations.

The United States will not make that mistake again.

NEW HOPE comes to Massachusetts with the inauguration today of Governor Ely Ames Stadtonstall as Governor.

We turn from the old regime of waste, extravagance and inefficiency.

We turn to the dawning era of sound, sensible and truly democratic government.

And we turn not as Republicans, Democrats or Independents, but as American citizens desirous of the best American government for ourselves and our children.

Mr. Saltonstall is fully conscious of the hard task he assumes, of the dark days ahead, of the people's ultimatum for statesmanship to replace politics.

That is fortunate and auspicious. As the late Arthur Brisbane often and wisely said, "personally to be concerned in the beginning and cause others to smile at the end is the ideal program."

If our new Governor can live up to his plans and bring back prosperity and confidence, he will have justified the trust so many thousands have reposed in him.

We think he will.

OUR GENERAL COURT, oldest legislative body in the nation, convenes with a golden opportunity to prove that age does not mean inaction and stupidity.

Many changes in procedure and laws are necessary because of the biennial sessions amendment to the Constitution. These changes should be made, without delay.

Then adequate consideration ought to be given to the more pressing problems of government, such as tax reduction, unemployment, industrial rehabilitation, protection from crime, efficient Civil Service, intelligent economy and honesty in public service.

It is to be hoped that Senators and Representatives, unlike their predecessors in past years, will not choose to waste valuable time seeking the repeal of the Teachers' Oath, which the Dies Committee revelations show to be more needed now than ever before, or championing Sales Tax schemes.

Let the 1933 Massachusetts Legislature be remembered as a body which could both see its duty and DO IT.

THE REVERE CLEANUP, so ably begun by Mayor Lawrence J. Giles, should be complete and thorough.

As everyone knows, gang czars and their followers will not go into retirement voluntarily as long as the opportunity remains for them to make a profit by the business end of breaking the law.

Consequently Mayor Giles' necessity is justified. As the overwhelming choice of the law-abiding people, he cannot be satisfied with excuses, alibis and political white-washing.

He must write a new and DIFFERENT chapter in "Beach City" history -- a chapter of ACTION and RESULTS.

Life Aboard Tramp Steamer

By EDWIN C. HILL

IF YOU'RE feeling a little tracksore as the calendar paces you into one more of those annual runarounds between the home and the office, consider a new book, "Vagabond Voyages," by Larry Nixon.

It is the story of low-cost travel, frequently cheaper than staying at home and a million times more fun. It takes you farther into long-dreamed-of enchantment than does more costly voyaging.

Mr. Nixon, a newspaperman, flashes up his list of interest in a most workmanlike fashion, and then does something that few if any travel writers have ever done. He tells you how much dockets and tickets the whole adventure with everything from price tags to menus and, at the same time, keeps the scented breezes of Samarkand stirring through his book.

LIKE MANY old mansions of the South, the world's Merchant Marine begins "taking paying guests." A few travelers, from one or two on up to a dozen or so, help put a voyage in the black in days of mighty close figuring, as world trade ebbs. Food and accommodations are good with beds instead of bunks, large clean ships with plenty of deck space and comfortable officers' mess and fellow passengers, from $3 or $4 a day on up to $6.

"You may think of freight vessels as dingy, dirty and ancient," writes Mr. Nixon. "Take a trip on a tramp steamer," someone will say, and immediately you have a vision of a tramp, an unkempt individual begging a handout at kitchen doors. Well, just as the hobo of yesteryear has vanished, there are no old-fashioned tramp steamers; owners don't find them profitable.

Nowadays cargo moves on regular routes in freighters modern, clean, fast freighters that ply [illegible] Samarang, Soura- baya, Semarang and Singapore and Shanghai, Hong Kong and Malaya; Port Said, Colombo, Marseilles and Calcutta names that ring with the romance of the crossroads of the far seas.

"Most of the newer ships are Diesel-motored practically all of them burn oil instead of coal. It costs too much to move slowly. Only swift vessels can profitably operate these days!"

MR. NIXON makes much of the free and easy voyaging, with no starch or ruffles and no organized entertainment. As to having a good time, you just roll your own.

In his appendix, he lists about 600 voyages, from $100 up to $600, up and down and around the world.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

THE COMMITTEE on good resolutions reports progress in the shape of skies and declares: It's only the fifth day of January and the New Year is already pock-marked with noble intentions.

THE AVERAGE MAN means well but his will power is always in litigation. He is gregarious and seeks the company of his fellow man, herein to be known in the language of his wife as those bums in the cigar-store. The result of inhibitions and restrictive influences is a conflict between good resolutions and a punch-board.

OUR PRIMITIVE HERITAGE and the dynamic illusions of these instincts stress the struggle between the processes of civilization and three plums on the jackpot.

GOOD RESOLUTIONS are never obliterated even though driven beyond the threshold of conscience. They express themselves in disguised form or in any sort of mental battle between symbolic psychology and reaching for that first glass of snooze shellac.

A GOOD RESOLUTION and a street-car transfer are usually only good for two hours. A fellow may start out with the best intentions in the world, with his soul as pure as soap-flakes, with a belief in his fellowman and the future with the birds singing in the sun shine, with the world's fool in his pocket and a still bigger [illegible] home ten hours later with his eye looking like a battle between red and black ants and in his pockets a book of chances on the Irish Sweepstakes.

The Brighter Side

Why Women Send Husbands to Jail

By DAMON RUNYON

[illegible]

ONE OF THE curious aspects of the law of New York State, which is pretty much benighted, anyway, in most of its laws relating to matrimony, is the way a lady can practically haunt a gentleman from whom she is divorced or separated, in the event he comes up shy in the alimony jackpot.

She can have him placed in the pokey, or jail, for arrears. That amounts to imprisonment for debt. One of our great American theories of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness is that you cannot put a man in jail for debt. The first time we get the opportunity we are going around to the hoosgow where the alimony debtors are incarcerated in New York and say to the boys like this:

"See here, boys, they can't put you in jail for that."

The Commissioner of Corrections of New York recently announced that it costs $2759 per head annually for the upkeep of an alimony debtor, for after the fellow is lodged in jail his board and room becomes a charge against the taxpayer. One thing about Old Egbert Z. Taxpayer he always gets it in the neck no matter what happens.

If a stick-up robs him of his money and beats him half to death in the process, Old Egbert has to help defray the expenses of capturing and prosecuting the miscreant and then he has to contribute to feeding and clothing and housing the sticker-upper all the years he is in the sneezer. Still, this is not much worse than having to help support a fellow citizen who happened to miss out in matrimony and who is unwilling or unable to pay Mrs. Piper.

WE IMAGINE that the majority of those who have gone to the alimony jail have been unable to pay and in those cases the logic of the various Mesdames Piper, concerned in putting the lads behind bars for their delinquencies, quite escapes us. When a man is in jail he is completely out of action and has no chance of making what the boys call a scratch. As long as he is on the loose he always has that chance and certainly there would be more prospect of him settling when he is out than when he is in.

However, we regret to say that many a lady, once she splits out with a man, becomes his implacable foe and apparently derives greater satisfaction from seeing him in jail than if she were getting an income from him. One thing we have never been able to understand is how two persons who may have spent years of happiness together can suddenly become imbued with a hatred for each other that stops at no form of persecution and revenge just because their marriage failed.

NO MATTER HOW you stand on the matter of divorce, you must admit that they generally seem to do this thing better in high-toned Park Avenue circles and among the screen folks of Hollywood. When they get divorced there are proper financial adjustments and if they do not remain close friends they at least remain ladies and gentlemen as far as possible. Of course, there are exceptions, but they just prove the rule.

We concede that conditions in both these circles are such as to make it possible to keep these separations on a more genteel plane than in other walks of life. In California, there is a community property law that automatically takes care of the thing that causes the most trouble elsewhere, which is the financial adjustment. The Park Avenuers have enough money to simplify the same angle.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

"IN THOSE DAYS came John the baptist preaching in the wilderness of Judeah and saying, 'Repent ye for the Kingdom of heaven is at hand. For this is He that was spoken of by the prophet Esaias saying, The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make His paths straight.'

Young Lindbergh drew cheering throngs last week, gathered in New York's Hotel Astor to discuss current economics with financial wizard Roger Babson. A far cry from the outlawed 20th century Messiah to that young fanatic stalking out of the desert 1900 years ago, a leather girdle around his lean loins, locusts for dessert for honey and parched locusts in a pouch . . . his wild cry shrilling high above the frightened crowds.

A far cry indeed! Yet I wonder if it would seem so far if one listened, as in past years, to the sermons of pastors? Strange how little change. Time passes, in empty churches and breaking hearts. Young folk know the pity of their elders' blindness. We have been hearing of their passion for speed, thrill and sensation, and the philosophy of Dutch Schultz, of New York.

Or that heedless cynicism which scoffs at the very word sin, and of a father's heart that died with Lincoln. Yet with shattering force Paul has cried the call of every heart-sick mother to her wayward boy: "Arise, arise, put on thy strength, O Zion; awake, put on thy beautiful garments, O Jerusalem, the holy city!" WE MUST BELIEVE TO GOD!

We need a revival of religion . . . and the real attitude toward life dictates Roger Babson. Then adds: There is more religion on Wall Street today than in any other section of New York and certainly more than in the western section of the country. Why? Because they have been through the purge. The great mass of the country has not been through the purge . . . it has been running on anesthetic . . . THE AMBITION OF THE AVERAGE PERSON TODAY IS TO RIDE IN THE CART RATHER THAN TO HELP PULL IT.

Grim words, stark and staccato as the forthright thoughts and acts of those Puritan fathers who built America . . . those God fearing Israelites who built the first Jerusalem with their sweat and sacrifice. For always, in any good beginning, there must be struggle and sacrifice. And always, when the struggle ceases and the way grows soft, THERE IS DANGER AHEAD.

THERE IS DANGER AHEAD FOR AMERICA TODAY. But it is not the danger of an imported Ism or a currency inflation. IT IS THE DANGER OF OUR OWN SOFTENING.

• • •

AMERICA NEEDS God today, says Roger Babson. And in frightened, chastened Wall Street, he adds, some of us are catching a glimpse of the old faith and fire. But he is wrong, I believe, in thinking that Wall Street has seen the light first. I write for Young America and Young America writes to me, thousands of letters per week.

And never not even in Puritan times—was there such a clamor for righteousness in our daily life, as there is in the hearts of Young America today.

VICK HOMES—3 out of 5

For 3 generations Vicks VapoRub has been mothers' standby in relieving the [illegible] of colds. [illegible] 3 out of 5 [illegible] used in more homes than all [illegible] [illegible] put together.

CAN BE USED FREELY... VapoRub is an external treatment. There's no "dosing"—no risks of stomach upsets. You simply massage it on throat, chest, and back.

ACTS DIRECT. VapoRub goes right to work to bring relief, two direct ways at once: (1) It stays on the skin like a poultice. (2) Its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are inhaled direct to the irritated air passages with every breath. This direct poultice and vapor action quickly loosens phlegm—clears the air passages—checks tendency to cough—eases muscular soreness or tightness—relieves local congestion—brings comfort and invites restful sleep.

DOUBLY-PROVED. VapoRub has been proved in daily use by two generations of mothers... further proved in one of the largest series of clinical tests ever made on colds. Just treat one cold with VapoRub...see for yourself how effective it is—and we believe that you, like most mothers, will always keep it handy in your home.

Governor Says Security for All

addition, carries so many borrowings that a serious situation faces us in relation to this phase of revenue production.

Our municipalities are dependent on the real estate tax and the added burdens gathered by these growing cost of welfare, disaster in many instances the very existence of our municipalities, and tend to throw them on the other communities of the state to finance during their distress.

The state is already operating several of our municipalities for that very reason.

All of this means that our real estate has a constantly decreasing value. Ownership of real estate is largely in the hands of the small home owner, and it affects every one directly and indirectly.

No business can prosper if such a process continues. The responsibility must rest on the workmen who build and those who work for the building supply trade but back of them the consequences hurt the retail trade and every one else.

The value of building permits in cities for Massachusetts municipalities including Boston amounted in 1928 to $171,000,000 and in 1929 an estimated $240,000,000. In 1926 there were $230,000,000 worth of homes being built and in 1937 approximately $21,000,000.

Thus, while the savings of our people in their homes are being constantly reduced and wiped out by decreasing real estate values new homes are not being built, for the same reason.

There is no alternative but to give most serious consideration to the plight of our municipalities and to the fact that all of our revenue sources are now by experience shown to be incapable of keeping pace with the demands for governmental activities and I have decided in my statement no discussion of federal activities.

The whole is never greater than the total of its parts. The whole can never be financially sound but if its component parts, the municipalities and towns, are weak then the financial stability of the state as a whole becomes less secure.

The Commonwealth has pledged a great deal of vast amounts to the assistance of the Metropolitan District Commission that the general fund may make grateful ends of the affairs. Great improvement in the methods and savings in expenditures have been made.

We must keep the functions of our government within the ability of our citizens to pay. If we do not this we will not only carry out our ideals of government.

We cannot expect to [illegible] and we cannot and we cannot [illegible] the obligation to pay for the services that we currently receive.

We must carry out completely and not neglect to those functions of government that are essential to the welfare of our citizens.

Those functions that may be helpful but not necessary. Those that take out [illegible] these of the [illegible] necessary and all [illegible] should be carefully scrutinized.

We are not Mr. and we [illegible] in a new era of good [illegible] between government bureaus operated upon me. I [illegible] to be a debtor and in spite [illegible] [illegible] to remember the [illegible] of [illegible].

[illegible] I lived in the [illegible] and [illegible] people. Honest fearless and capable public servants are the great assets of [illegible].

We must always keep in mind that our power to govern is a grant by the people and that we are to use that power for their benefit and not to benefit alone.

Let us be mindful of the wisdom of experience and avoid the pitfalls of the past.

Let us so conduct ourselves and so perform our duties as to merit the confidence and support of every citizen.

To that end I utter this fervent prayer to the God for of the Universe before whom we all stand.

Guide us so that we may act justly; preserve for us that priceless heritage of liberty; make us see clearly that boundary which separates liberty and authority. Give to us an unconquerable will to administer the affairs of our Commonwealth in such a manner as to be worthy of her loftiest traditions.

PLAY-BY-PLAY IN THE STOCK MARKET

The stock market slipped a trifle today at the start, but losses were shortened as buyers appeared from time to time when volume on the downside dwindled.

[illegible]

The stock market has moved [illegible] from resistance areas that had barred the path to higher levels. Rails and industries by continuing to set new high closings are providing constructive forces with the best sort of technical market news. There is some loss of a reaction of sorts but to our mind it is subsidized by wishful thinking.

The next logical resistance is to be found at the old bull market high established by the industrial [illegible]. The rails have shown the way and anything like an even break on industrial production would permit a will pave the way for fresh peaks.

Sonnenberg Serious In Mat Comeback ‡ Dynamiter Drew Record Gates

By JACK CONWAY

GUS SONNENBERG is displaying as much interest in his come back drive in wrestling as he did as he prepared himself for his winning world's championship match with Strangler Lewis at the Garden.

Mr. Boston

Sonnenberg worked in the mountains of California for six months before he came East. This is why Gus carried so little excess weight, and why his eyes were so clear and bright.

There are few sports characters who have been as colorful as the old Dynamiter who came out of a tackle position on the Dartmouth football team to win the world's wrestling championship.

Sonnenberg revolutionized wrestling with his butt and tackle. They were, and still are illegal, but the public likes them, and so the officials turn their heads the other way when Gus sweeps into action.

Within a period of two years as champion, Sonnenberg dragged $2,000,000 into the box office.

Other wrestlers benefited from the Sonnenberg boom era. One foreign wrestler had a money belt containing $50,000 in gold when he sailed for home. Most of this money was earned in tournaments in which Sonnenberg agreed to meet the survivor.

Sonnenberg as champion loved life, and had his share of it. Like other Americans in the big money, he risked his fortune in investments, and some of them did not do so well.

As title holder Sonnenberg married Judith Allen who had been Marie Elliot when she went to school in Belmont. Their wedding later ended in the divorce court and Gus married again.

I regretted seeing the old Dynamiter's marriage with Judith Allen go on the rocks for that lady was very much in love with the girl of his choice.

• • •

Sonnenberg Looks Forward Once More

WHEN SONNENBERG was at Dartmouth, he was taught not to worry too much about the play that went wrong, but to strive and profit by mistakes.

This is why Gus went to the mountains of California to prepare himself properly for his comeback. He felt that poor condition had contributed to his wrestling downfall. He tired as he made his wild surges in the ring.

Back in condition once more, the old Dynamiter has regained his former fire. He is action every second he is in the ring, and has been knocking off the opposition as speedily as he did when he was blasting his way to fame behind his devastating flying tackle.

Wee Willie Davis, 285-pound Buffalo giant, was Sonnenberg's latest victim. At the Garden tomorrow night Gus will try to add Rudy Dusek to his list of conquests. Rudy is a veteran of the wrestling wars, has always kept himself in good condition, and insists he will bring the Sonnenberg comeback drive to an abrupt end.

I like the form shown by Gus in his recent bouts, and I believe the fellow will click once more. If I were to wager a hat on the outcome of tomorrow night's Garden bout, Sonnenberg would be my choice. The fellow appears to once more have what it takes.

Derby Entries Close Jan. 17

Senior Ice Contestants Register

Entries for the Class B, Junior Silver Skates Derby, metric speed skating event of the year to be held at Boston Garden on Sunday afternoon, January 22 will close at midnight of Tuesday, January 17.

All those persons of age and experience who want to participate in the Boston American Sunday Afternoon party must have their registration in before that time. Entries received after that time will be accepted only at the discretion of the Metropolitan Skating Club.

In answer to several queries submitted, all seniors must be registered with the New England Skating Association in order to compete.

Seniors are those 14 years of age and over. Those contestants under 14 and competing in the various other younger aged divisions do not need to be registered.

All that these seniors have to do to register is send their name, age, address, club affiliation, if any, to William Carroll, the Boston American sports editor, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston, and he will mail out the registration blanks.

Toronto Takes On Olympics

Playing their third game in four days, the Boston Olympics clash with Ace Bailey's Toronto varsity sextet at the Boston Garden tonight. This is the second and last exhibition the local clubmen play this winter.

Ace Bailey

Little is known of the Toronto varsity other than the fact that they downed the Southern California team by an 8-3 score; the best showing any team made against the Trojans while that team was in the East. They bowed to the McGill Redmen at Rye, N. Y., by a 2-1 count.

The Toronto coach, Ace Bailey, needs no introduction to Boston hockey fans. He's the same ace of the Eddie Shore "incident" of a few years back.

Since taking over at the famous Canadian university, ace's teams have been noted for their clever passing game and high scoring ability.

OLYMPICS DEFEATED

The season's smallest crowd, 5413, saw the Olympics go down to a 2-1 defeat in a rather dull exhibition of hockey.

Marcel Laforest salted the game away for the visitors in the seventh minute of overtime. Boston was pressing the Raiders at the time, but Dick Lewis missed intercepting a clearing shot and Laforest picked it up in the center zone to race in. The Olympics back checkers forced Laforest to the boards and he passed to George Bell who in turn slipped the rubber to Babe Leblanc.

Northeastern Loses Peterson

By MURRAY KRAMER

Northeastern's track hopes received a severe setback when it was learned today that Carl Peterson, new hurdles find, is out for the indoor season . . . while working recently, a three-inch sliver pierced his side which necessita'ed a minor operation and Carl's recovery is much slower and medicos believe that competition is impossible.

The word is being passed around that Coach Wes Fesler will eventually build a basketball outfit which will raise ructions in the Eastern hoop league . . . If Wes can turn this stunt, he is a miracle man . . . the Crimsons lack height and have only two natural basketball players in Charley Lutz and Ulysses Lupien . . . incidentally, don't underestimate Tufts, for Art Cochran has a well drilled Jumbo five ready for Harvard Saturday night.

Wes Fesler

That special shoulder harness which has been made for Solly Nechtem, Boston University's basketball captain fits great . . . watch Solly roll up those points . . . Jackie Rotman, Terrier veteran guard who was badly bruised in an accident last week, will play against Dartmouth Saturday night . . . Jackie will have his bruised ribs padded and a special knee brace . . .

With the Skating Club of Boston and the Harvard varsity and freshman hockey teams now able to practice at the new skating rink, some of the local college may be able to get more time at the Arena for much needed workouts . . . incidentally, the Garden-Arena lose quite a bit of revenue from this move . . . all big skating events and Harvard games will still take place at the either the Arena or Garden.

The coaches meeting in Chicago was rather a drab affair in many ways . . . there were no jobs floating around . . . Dr. Eddie Anderson and "Clipper" Smith, the two gentlemen in the new were not even among those present . . . that new football rule keeping offensive linemen from tackle to tackle on the line of scrimmage on a pass play is smart legislation . . . there have been too many ineligible men sneaking down the field to hamper the defense and getting away with it.

Clipper Smith

Brown has chalked up four hockey victories this season and is ready to make its Boston bow tomorrow night against Boston University . . . The Terriers are generally able to take care of the Bruins and despite the recent Brown victory over Boston College, the Terriers are favored . . . It is beginning to look as though the magic touch of Coach Waylie Vaughan is being felt . . . the B. U. puckchasers will take a few lickings but watch them during the last few weeks of the season.

Dick Gill, long jean Boston College track captain of last year is taking graduate work at the Heights and working out daily under Jack Ryder . . . the flying Redhead is down to 1:13 for the 600 which means that he's ready . . . if he gets an invitation for the Prout 600 this gentleman may give Jimmy Herbert a real headache.

Budge Whips Vines In 3 Straight Sets

By WALTER KILEY

Were the world professional tennis championship depending on the results of the New York and Boston matches already played, J. Donald Budge of Oakland, California, would now have dethroned Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, California, in most convincing manner.

For the red-headed Abraham Lincoln, the newcomer to pro ranks and its indoor conditions, picked up where he left off at Madison Square Garden when he took veteran Ellsworth in straight sets, 6—3, 8—6, 6—4, before an appreciative audience of 6980 paid customers at Boston Garden.

Which means that Vines, reputed to be the master of the world courts, has now bowed in six successive sets to his youthful opponent, fresh from amateur ranks.

One-sided as the score might indicate, the play was still close and hard fought from beginning to end, productive of long and at times spectacular rallies, steaming services and, according to witnesses of both matches, by long odds better tennis than played on opening night at New York.

Bruce Barnes, the Texan, who split a two sets preliminary match with young Dick Skeen, California's newly unearthed instructor, 6-2, 4-6, waxed eloquent on Vines' marked improvement and predicted there would be no more three sets victories from here in.

Budge broke through Vines in the sixth game of the opening set and in the seventh of the third set, those two breaks, the other games all following service, bringing in the set wins.

It was a question as to whether Budge or Vines produced the more powerful services, although it did seem that Ellsworth's lacked just a mite of the steam which characterized his matches with Fred Perry here two years ago.

Vines later teamed with Barnes to beat Budge and Skeen in doubles, 6—3, 6—3.

Moonlight Hike In Blue Hills

A winter moonlight walk and climb to the summit of Great Blue Hill and a short discourse on astronomy, together with observation of all visible stars, will be held tomorrow evening at 6:30 in the Blue Hills, Milton, under the sponsorship of the Metropolitan District Commission-WPA division of recreation.

Equipped with flashlights and garbed in walking and hiking togs, the nature lovers will assemble at the base of Great Blue Hill.

Harry George Higbee will lead the party over the trails to the summit of the hill and will deliver a short talk on the study of the heavenly bodies.

Edward L. Farrell, supervisor of recreation in the MDC-WPA, expects close to 200 outdoor lovers to take part.

8 Title Classes On Amateur Card

Monday night at the Boston Arena will be the last chance the simon-pure mitt tossers of Massachusetts will have to qualify for the 1939 Massachusetts State Boxing Championships.

The Irish-American A. A. will stage the fourth and final tryout tourney for the "States," and the contests are open to all registered A. A. U. boxers in Massachusetts.

Contests will be held in the 8 championship classes—112, 118, 126, 135, 147, 160, 175 pounds and heavyweights, and all entries must be filed with Tom Kanaly at the Arena.

The winners of Monday night's finals will qualify for the State Championships, which will be held at the Arena January 16.

In addition, the winners of the State Finals will automatically qualify for the annual New England A. A. A. U. Championships, which are to be held on March 13th, and from the showing of New England boys in the March tournament a New England team will be selected to go to San Francisco for the National A. A. U. Boxing Championships in April.

A large number of top-ranking "pure" performers in Massachusetts will be seen in action at the Arena on Monday night. Every Bay Stater wants to win a "States" first prize for the victory means so much to each individual.

Among the leading boxers to enter yesterday were Bill Tordiglione, Boston, the Golden Gloves champion, and James Pinckney, also of Boston, in the 135 pounds class.

The American Wrestling Association, which ruled that Gus Sonnenberg's flying tackle is legal and he may use it when he collides with Rudy Dusek in one of the main bouts of Promoter Paul Bowser's all star card at the Boston Garden tomorrow night, was called upon today to decide another ticklish point.

Steve Casey, world's champion, and his brother Jim, who is down to meet The Shadow, mysterious rough house grappler, in the co-feature tomorrow, stormed into Bowser's office and sought to have the hooded ace barred from wrapping his left arm in bandage.

"It acts as a vise when he gets a headlock," said Steve, the spokesman. "The lad here thinks it's not legal, and he wants someone to tell The Shadow so. Why he could crush a man's head because of that bandage on his elbow. Someone ought to ban it."

Promoter Bowser quickly contacted the wrestling fathers who make the rules and decide just such weighty questions. The A. W. A. without much discussion of the matter ruled that the bandage is legal and the gist of their decision was that The Shadow must wear it because his elbow has been sprained.

The matter was cleared up, but not to the satisfaction of the Caseys.

"Sprain, huh?" scoffed Steve "I tell you he wears it for only one reason. It's just like a man had his head in a vice when he gets a headlock on you. He ought to get it on one of those A. W. A. officials."

However, Jim Casey said he would not withdraw from tomorrow's bout.

"No, I've signed to meet the man and I haven't backed away from anyone yet. I won't start tomorrow. Maybe I'll put some bandage on my own left arm and give him a taste of his own medicine."

Sixty-three this year, he will be automatically retired from the police department in which he is an inspector.

Said Matt: "I think I can earn a place on that Olympic team, for I'll have lots of time to practice."

Krause Named H.C. Line Coach

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 5 (AP)—Edward W. Krause, former Notre Dame football and basketball star, has been engaged as Holy Cross line coach, it was announced by Director of Athletics Tom McCabe.

Joe Sheeketski, the Crusaders' new head coach, selected Krause as the first of his three assistants.

Krause was a nine-letter sports star at Notre Dame, playing football, basketball, baseball and track. He was chosen an All-America tackle in 1933 and is rated one of the best college basketball centers ever developed in the Middle West.

Krause has been head coach of all sports at St. Mary's College in Winona, Minn., since his graduation from Notre Dame in 1934. He will conclude his contract there at the end of the basketball season, being scheduled to report here for the start of spring football practice on March 15.

Louis' Meteoric Rise Arabian Nights Tale

This is the second of a series of intimate sketches of the champions of the sporting world who have emerged in 1938 and who may be expected to make further sporting history in 1939. In these articles Morton Moss, brilliant International News Service sports expert, will give a new glimpse into the remarkable personalities who make sports headlines. His second subject is Joe Louis, heavyweight champion.

By MORTON MOSS

International News Service Sports Writer

It probably would be superfluous to wish a happy New Year to Mr. Joseph Louis, the coffee-colored crown-clutcher among the heavyweights in the egg-eared and flattened-nose fraternity.

Bill Robinson Mrs. Louis Joe Louis

For, at this moment, looking for a bash boy likely to snatch the Brown Bomber's bauble in 1939, would be letting yourself in for more frustration than that experienced by the cynical Codger Diogenes when he fired up a lantern and set off on a Safari to find an honest man.

Several short annums ago Mr. Joseph Louis—then Mr. Joseph Louis Barrow—collected five dollars a day helping Henry Ford supply the universe with his automotive commodity.

Now Mr. Joseph Louis has collected a coinage cache close to a million and a half single bills in good old U. S. legal tender, with the painless prospect of zooming his doubloons passably near the twin million figure this approaching 12 months.

The silent swatsmith's career is the typical American Arabian Nights success story which some of our brighter brains insist is no longer a possibility.

OLD FOLKS COTTON PICKERS

Mr. Joseph Louis Barrow could hardly have taken up the thread of life under a more imposing assortment of handicaps.

The larrup lad popped up on terra firma 24 years ago in a two-room shack in the Buckalew Mountains not far from Lafayette, in Chambers County, Alabama.

Consider, too, that he was given Friday, May 13, 1914 as his debut day.

The old folks at home were cotton pickers with little more of the comforts of this world than the flimsy roof over their curly conks. But young Joseph did not cotton to that.

Young Joseph, a blackamoor stingy with his syllables, apparently did not cotton to the realm of culture either.

At the tender age of nine, we discover him in Detroit doing his darndest to sabotage the efforts of his schoolteachers who stubbornly endeavored to open the Louis cranium to the fruits of scholarly knowledge.

Just four years backwards in 1934, as the clock ticks, the Ford Motor Company's Rouge River plant was depositing a weekly stipend of $25 in the soon-to-be mighty mitts of young brown Joe.

JOINED PROS IN 1934.

The Alabama Bambino already had begun to hear the ring of the bell—or is it the bell of the ring?—for that was the annum in which his pelting pillows pounded him into the light-heavyweight throne seat at the National A. A. U. glove orgy in St. Louis.

Then Joseph fared forth in search of the promised land by becoming a biff professional on July 4, 1934, a day whose dunder and blitzen foretold the cyclonic swathe shortly to be cut through the heavyweight wheat by an unknown jolt-genius.

His belt bow resulted in the relegation to the land of dreams of a certain Jack Kracken at Chicago in one round.

Fifteen more months and Strategy Superintendents Julian Black and John Roxborough were holding in leash the awesome Brown Bomber, as destructive a dealer of thunderbolts seen since Jove, or, anyway, since Mr. Jack Dempsey.

He had battered his whacky way to 26 straight victories, 22 via the sleep-inducing method.

Two former owners of the heavyweight high-chair, Primo Carnera and Max Baer, were included on Joseph's horror roll.

For making Baer cry, "'nuff!" on one knee in the fourth heat, Louis pocketed $215,017 of a golden gate of $932,944 which brought the million dollar gate back into the punch picture.

It seemed impossible that Joseph was not here to stay on the roof of the heavyweight house as soon as he could coax aging Emperor Jim Braddock into the same disclosure.

Sport scribblers outdid themselves in penning paeans of praise for this pulverizing pelter. Our tribe wondered whether Joe was the most prodigious puncher ever.

Then came the hangover after the word binge. Max Schmeling, a supposedly finished fighter, brought his right into crushing contact with Joseph's jaw, and Joseph swooned away in the 12th following his absorption of a ponderous platter of punishment.

The casual Joseph, who had nonchalantly wed sylph-shaped Mara Trotter and mashed Max Baer the same day and who never got more than moderately agonized except over the fate of his favorite Detroit Tigers, was finally stirred by the Schmeling slashing.

"Ah wants Smellin' again," Joseph expressed his indignation in his own quaint manner even after he slumberized Jim Braddock at Chicago, June 22, 1937, and had a royal topper to cover his conk. "Ah'm not a real champeen until ah beats Smellin'."

Well, Joseph received his wish last June 22 in the Yankee Stadium ring where he had been U-boated by the Reich rammer.

In a delirious 2:04 minutes of round the first, Mr. Joseph Louis Barrow, banking his most plutocratic purse of $349,288.40, practically decapitated the pathetically astonished German. The brawl barely muffled a million bucks in toll charges.

"Now ah feel like a champeen."

The kid from the cotton patch calmly spoke his admission that Joseph at last had arrived in the promised land.

Sport-O-Grimes

Dig through the files and see if you can unearth one case where a professional athlete, after a poor season, demanded that his salary be cut. When a ball player fails to come up to standard, it's the owner that takes it on the chin . . . And, when the same player gets enough breaks coupled with his natural ability to wind up at the top of the heap, the owner discovers that he has a hold out on his hands . . . However, I don't figure that Jimmy Foxx, who is alleged to have quoted Connie Mack as saying that he (Foxx) is entitled to $40,000, will kick over the traces with Tom Yawkey holding the reins . . . After his all day session with the baseball scribes, if Joe Cronin can speak above a whisper tonight, he's a wonder . . . Joe was disappointed to learn that Win Green, his trainer, is in Chicago with the Rossmen . . . To one who watched Lionel and Chuck Conacher for years it's difficult to figure that young Roy of the Bruins is a brother of those former stars . . . Roy is the first Conacher to come up over the horizon shooting from the port side . . . Johnny Allen, the Cleveland pitcher, recently operated on, is on his way to St. Pete . . . Johnny will need be in fine fettle when he reports for training at New Orleans for two other affable boys, Ben Chapman and Johnny Broaca are now Indians . . . In husky Jack Crawford, Art Ross has another Eddie Shore in the making . . . And, Jack isn't far from being a finished product . . . Manager "Red" Dutton of the Americans believes that little Al Murray is one of the gamest kids that ever played hockey . . . Bill Stewart, deposed Black Hawks manager, and his old side kick, Dolly Stark, will soon be sunning themselves at Palm Beach . . . The fight boys dig up some "dillies" for "Two Ton" Tony Galento to push over . . . There was a medical attendant with Bill Cowell, former athletic director at the University of New Hampshire, during his short visit to the coaches meeting in Chicago . . . But for the fact that the Reservation Golf Club had rejoined the Massachusetts Golf Association, it would have cost that organization a pretty penny following the hurricane . . . The Service Section of the M. G. A. remedied the trouble at the Reservation gratis . . . "Ace" Bailey and his Toronto Varsity are winding up the longest trip ever taken by a college hockey squad . . . Toronto to Vancouver to Los Angeles to New York, to Boston and back home.
